

"Earth & Memo"

Once upon a time, there was a brave little kid called Memo. From the moment he was born, Memo felt an intense connection to planet Earth. He cared deeply about nature, its creatures and its people. It was his obsession with Earth that drove Memo to search for ways to protect it.

He learnt how to become an environmental engineer. An environmental engineer works to promote sustainability, protect the environment and reduce pollution. He designs and cleans up hazardous waste sites, and builds technological solutions that help reduce pollution. With the help of Earth-focused scientific and engineering skills, Memo is determined to
